

Research and innovation on rare earth elements

Supporting the establishment of a sustainable rare earth elements supply chain for economic development through new laboratories, centres and training.

Key facts

- Two new Research and Development Centres established
- 23 training, accreditation and capacity building sessions delivered
- Contributions from 35 researchers
- Research partnership established for the development of new products
- Six national and international patent applications submitted
- Five innovative products developed and one eco-innovative product commercialised

Partners

- EU
- National contribution